HOLY FATHER'S PRAYER INTENTIONS OCTOBER

Human trafficking: That human trafficking, the modern form of slavery, may be eradicated.

Mission in Asia: That with a missionary spirit the Christian communities of Asia may announce the Gospel to those who are still awaiting it.

IN TESTIMONIUM...

There were many highlights from the Holy Father's visit worthy of repeating. Here are just a few:

"Mr. President, together with their fellow citizens, American Catholics are committed to building a society which is truly tolerant and inclusive, to safeguarding the rights of individuals and communities, and to rejecting every form of unjust discrimination. With countless other people of good will, they are likewise concerned that efforts to build a just and wisely ordered society respect their deepest concerns and their right to religious liberty. That freedom remains one of America's most precious possessions. And, as my brothers, the United States Bishops, have reminded us, all are called to be vigilant, precisely as good citizens, to preserve and defend that freedom from everything that would threaten or compromise it."

The White House, 23 September 2015

"The innocent victim of abortion, children who die of hunger or from bombings, immigrants who drown in the search for a better tomorrow, the elderly or the sick who are considered a burden, the victims of terrorism, wars, violence and drug trafficking, the environment devastated by man's predatory relationship with nature – at stake in all of this is the gift of God, of which we are noble stewards but not masters. It is wrong, then, to look the other way or to remain silent."

St. Matthew's Cathedral, 23 September 2015

"I cannot hide my concern for the family, which is threatened, perhaps as never before, from within and without. Fundamental relationships are being called into question, as is the very basis of marriage and the family. I can only reiterate the importance and, above all, the richness and the beauty of family life.... At the risk of oversimplifying, we might say that we live in a culture which pressures young people not to start a family, because they lack possibilities for the future. Yet this same culture presents others with so many options that they too are dissuaded from starting a family."

The United States Congress, 24 September 2015

"We must avoid every temptation to fall into a declarationist nominalism which would assuage our consciences.

"Without the recognition of certain incontestable natural ethical limits and without the immediate implementation of those pillars of integral human development, the ideal of "saving succeeding generations from the scourge of war" (Charter of the United Nations, Preamble), and "promoting social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom" (ibid.), risks becoming an unattainable illusion, or, even worse, idle chatter which serves as a cover for all kinds of abuse and corruption, or for carrying out an ideological colonization by the imposition of anomalous models and lifestyles which are alien to people's identity and, in the end, irresponsible."

The United Nations, 25 September 2015

WELCOMING CATHOLICS HOME
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6- 7:00-8:00 PM

LECTURE & BOOK SIGNING

“Old Books Against New Slavery: Newman’s Ideal Today”

In his Homily for the Beatification of John Henry Cardinal Newman, Benedict XVI praised Newman’s Idea of a University for defending “an ideal from which all those engaged in academic formation can continue to learn,” an ideal according to which “intellectual training, moral discipline and religious commitment would come together.” Today, our educational systems, both Catholic and public, are finding it difficult to form men and women for lives of practical wisdom and moral virtue. In addition to the legal obstacles to successful education posed by an aggressive secular faction, arguably more serious are the cognitive and moral deficiencies of our common culture. Today’s youth are all too often unable to express themselves accurately, to make or even to follow sustained arguments, or to assess the rival accounts of the human person with which they are assaulted in the media. These deficiencies threaten the very exercise of moral reasoning and, accordingly, attack the pursuit of the common good at its roots. In the face of this threat, which constitutes a kind of cultural slavery, Newman’s ideal is arguably more important than ever.

THE STATE OF THE COMMONWEALTH

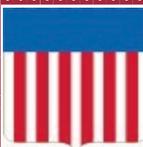

"Religious liberty, by its nature, transcends places of worship and the private sphere of individuals and families. Our various religious traditions... remind us of the transcendent dimension of human existence and our irreducible freedom in the face of every claim to absolute power. We need but look at history, especially the history of the last century, to see the atrocities perpetrated by systems which claimed to build one or another "earthly paradise" by dominating peoples, subjecting them to apparently indisputable principles and denying them any kind of rights."
